

Unable to find a job

User: Hey, I've been applying everywhere, but nobody is hiring me

AI: Hey User, that sounds difficult and exhausting. Would you like to share what has been happening?

User: I have been applying to every job role I see on LinkedIn, Naukri, Indeed... You name and I have tried. But I am not catching a break anywhere.

AI: Seeming like you have been going through an exhaustive process. How have you been feeling about this?

User: I am feeling dejected; I don't know what to do

AI: For how long have you been applying for jobs, but in vain?

User: At least 6 months now...

AI: Okay... and have you just completed your education recently, or are you getting back to a job after a break?

User: I finished my post-graduation recently

AI: How are you feeling right now about the process?

User: Hmm... Anxious, overwhelmed and dejected.

AI: Okay, and out of these three... which one is impacting you the most?

User: I think the overwhelm

AI: If you had to describe the emotion in your body, where are you feeling it?

User: Heaviness in my chest.

AI: Would you like me to help you with some tips on how you can deal with this overwhelm?

User: Yes.

AI: How about we try a breathing exercise?

User: Yes... sure

AI: Great, follow my instructions. Sit comfortably... Now take a deep breath in.. Imagine you are smelling a flower.. Now breathe out.. Imagine you are blowing a candle.. Be as slow as possible.. focus on the breath coming in and out...

Unable to find a job

User: I've been job-hunting for eight months since graduating, and I honestly don't know how much more rejection I can take.

AI: Hey... facing one rejection after another can be very stressful. Do you feel you have applied to a lot of places, but in vain?

User: Yes, over a hundred applications now, and most are not even responded to.

AI: Are you worried you won't eventually succeed in finding something?

User: Some days, yes, especially when I see classmates already settled into jobs.

AI: How does being without a job at this moment make you feel?

User: Anxious... constantly. Even small things like meeting people bring it up.

AI: Are you facing any rejection from the places you're applying to, or is it no response?

User: Both. A few outright rejections, but mostly just nothing back at all.

AI: Do you feel dejected, anxious, or angry when you are rejected?

User: All three, honestly, depending on the day and how the rejection came.

AI: Do you feel helpless or hopeless when you don't hear from prospective employers?

User: Yes, especially after a good interview where I thought it went well.

AI: Oh.. that's tough... Do you blame or doubt yourself when you don't hear back?

User: Every time. I replay the interview and pick apart everything I said.

AI: Seems like an exhausting task to do mentally... Do you doubt your actual skills because of this, or is it more about interview performance?

User: Both, honestly. I've started wondering if I'm just not good enough for the roles I want.

AI: Do you avoid social situations because people may ask about your job?

User: Yes, I've skipped a couple of family gatherings for exactly that reason.

AI: How do your friends and family respond to you not having a job right now?

User: There's a lot of 'have you heard back yet?' which feels heavy after a while.

AI: And how does that make you feel?

User: Like I am not good enough

AI: I hear you... Do you feel you criticise yourself harshly?

User: Very much. I call myself lazy sometimes, even though I know I'm applying every day.

AI: Do you notice negative self-talk building up around this?

User: Yes, mostly around 'what's wrong with me' type thoughts.

AI: Have you noticed yourself overthinking about the future because of the current situation?

User: All the time. I catastrophize about never finding anything at all.

AI: Of late, have you noticed yourself losing interest or motivation to do things you usually enjoy?

User: Yes, actually. I used to paint on weekends, and I haven't touched my canvas in a month.

AI: Thank you for giving me this valuable insight. I can see that you are trying your level best, but something still doesn't seem to be clicking.

User: Yes, every single day, even when it feels pointless.

AI: Do you want my help planning the next steps with you, maybe restructuring your approach a bit?

User: Yes, I think that's exactly what I need right now instead of just applying blindly.

AI: Great... let's plan the next steps together. I also want to suggest getting back to painting; it will help you feel a little calmer.

Unable to find a job

User: I've been unemployed for over a year now, and I'm getting really worried about money.

AI: Hey... that sounds like an overwhelming and difficult situation to be in right now. Do you have any financial support right now from family?

User: Yes, my parents. They haven't said much, but I can see the concern.

AI: So... we can assume that your parents are supportive about you not having a job at this moment?

User: Mostly, but I can tell it's wearing on them too, even if they don't say it directly.

AI: Hmm... it must be difficult seeing your parents worry about you. How does that make you feel?

User: Honestly... like I am a bad son for not doing anything all this while and letting them down.

AI: I know this is a tough situation to be in... but, do you think talking to a family member about it could actually help you?

User: Maybe..

AI: What worries you the most about talking to them?

User: Part of me is scared it'll just add pressure, but keeping it in isn't working either

AI: that's a fair point, it can be conflicting between worrying someone and wanting support. But getting that support could maybe help you figure out how you can go about it

User: Maybe... How would I even talk to them?

AI: Just share what you feel... how much you have been trying and what outcome it is leading to.

User: What if I want to change career course?

AI: Sure... that could also be discussed with them.

User: Hmm... Okay.... I think I'll try that with my family and get back to you

AI: Sounds perfect... Good luck with the conversation; I am here if you need me.

Need help deciding career

Post graduation

User: I don't know what career I want.

AI: Hey, what confusion are you facing regarding your career? What specialisation to take, or what job do you want?

User: Hmm... I don't know what to pursue next.

AI: Would you like to share what you are currently doing?

User: I have just graduated, but now I am confused about what I should pursue

AI: What did you study in your graduation?

User: B.Com

AI: Are there any career options you find particularly interesting?

User: I like investment banking interesting

AI: What do you find interesting about it or what draws you towards the career?

User: I like the lifestyle/ money/ profile/ subjects

AI: Have you explored or read about any options in this particular field?

User: Not really. Can you share any career options?

AI: While I wish I could guide you about what careers you could select, I am better equipped to deal with underlying emotions.

User: No, I am not feeling anything in particular.

AI: Okay, feel free to reach out to me if you are feeling overwhelmed or confused about what choice to make. I am here for you

Need help deciding career

Post 12th Grade

User: I don't know what career I want.

AI: Hey, what confusion are you facing regarding your career? What specialisation to take, or what job do you want?

User: Hmm... I don't know what stream to choose.

AI: Would you like to share what you are currently doing?

User: I have finished my 12th grade, but now I am confused about what I should pursue

AI: Which stream have you chosen in 12th?

User: Commerce

AI: Are there any career options you find particularly interesting?

User: I like investment banking interesting

AI: What do you find interesting about it or what draws you towards the career?

User: I like the lifestyle/ money/ profile/ subjects

AI: Have you explored or read about any options in this particular field?

User: Not really. Can you share any career options?

AI: While I wish I could guide you on which careers to choose, this really needs someone who specialises in career guidance. I'd suggest connecting with a career guidance counsellor who can help you explore this properly.

User: Okay, do you know anyone?

AI: I don't have someone specific to point you to, but a certified career counsellor would be able to walk you through aptitude tests and options that fit you best. It might really help to book a session with one.

User: Alright, I'll think about it.

AI: That sounds like a good next step. I'm here too if you want to talk through how you're feeling about all this in the meantime.

Feeling Pressured to decide quickly

User: Hey, I am a student, and I feel pressured to decide quickly on the career path I should take.

AI: Hey, it sounds like you're put on the spot and in an uncomfortable position.

User: Well, yeah, I don't know what to do... my parents are after my life to choose between medicine and engineer. And I like neither of the choices.

AI: What option would you like to ideally choose?

User: I want to go for something creative. But my parents are not ready at all.

AI: Have you spoken to your parents about it?

User: Yeah...I have tried to... but every time I go to speak, I get scared and stop

AI: And... what is it that you are worried about?

User: I feel my parents won't understand or yell at me

AI: Okay... So, you have not really spoken to your parents, but are worried of how they may react?

User: Yes...

AI: between both your parents, do both of them share the same opinion about your career or do you think one would be more open to listening to your view?

User: Hmm... I think my mom/ dad would be more open to listening to what I say

AI: Then how about you try to run this idea by them?

User: Hmm...Okay. But I am scared.

AI: I understand... it is a difficult conversation to have. Would you like to discuss different ways we can approach the topic and what you could say?

User: Yes...I think that could help me.

AI: Sure... Take a day or two to gather your thoughts, and we can discuss this in detail.

User: Yes...I'll come back to you

Feeling Pressured to decide quickly

User: Hey, am being pressured to join the family business, when I actually want to study further

AI: Hey, it sounds like you're put on the spot and in an uncomfortable position.

User: Well, yeah, I don't know what to do... my parents don't want me to do my master's and start working in the family business.

AI: What master's course were you thinking of pursuing?

User: Financial Management. I feel it would help the business... But my parents are a little orthodox, they feel I know enough and the rest I would learn on the job.

AI: I understand you are in a tough position... Have you spoken to your parents about it?

User: Yeah... I have tried to... but they just don't seem to listen to me.

AI: Okay... And is there anyone else in the family who would support you wanting to study further?

User: My uncle... He has, in fact, been telling me to do my MBA.

AI: Great... So there is some support we could utilise?

User: I guess... Do you suggest I speak to him?

AI: If you do speak to him... Do you think your parents would be more open to listening to him?

User: Yes... He is my older uncle, so my dad will at least be open to listening to what he has to say.

AI: Okay... So how about you speak to your uncle and tell me how that conversation goes?

User: Yes, sure... sounds like something I could do.

AI: Perfect... I am here if you want to discuss this further and plan the next steps

I'm confused about my future.

User: I'm confused about my future

AI: Hey, User, what confusion is bringing you here today?

User: Well.... I feel stuck at my job.

AI: For how long have you been feeling stuck?

User: For over a year now. I have been working in the same company for 15 years now. I feel no growth or appreciation.

AI: That sounds tough... How does not getting any appreciation feel after so many years?

User: Honestly... feels very demotivating. I question what the point of all this is. Why am I even doing this job?

AI: When did you first start feeling demotivated?

User: Hmmm... initially I noticed myself thinking, 'It's okay, things will change', but now getting out of bed also feels like such a task.

AI: Sounds like you have been really pushing yourself over the years. Do you remember the first time you had this thought? What situation was it?

User: uuuhhh... I don't remember the exact year or day, but I did notice a slight shift in my mood when I got passed over for a promotion. And you know what... I did everything right, my KPIs, my appraisal were good. But even then, no promotion.

AI: So, even before the demotivation set in... did you feel any other emotion?

User: Anger... and frustration.

AI: In such situations, it is common to feel the frustration that over time can lead to other emotions, such as demotivation. At this point in time, how would you like me to help you?

User: I don't know.... I am unsure how to move forward? Do I continue being in this dead-end job? Do I think of something new?

AI: I know this seems like a difficult decision to think about, but before you take any decision, let's explore the underlying thoughts and emotions pertaining to every option you are thinking of?

User: Yes... I think that would be great. How do you suggest we go about it?

AI: If you were to choose staying in the same job, how would you feel?

User: Well... I think I would be even more demotivated. I hate my life; I think I would hate it even more.

AI: Hmmm... And how would it impact your relationship or say day to day functioning?

User: I think I am already annoyed with people at home. I snap at them; I don't take people to them because I am tired. And... when we do go out, I am not engaged or having fun.

AI: This is interesting insight. So.... staying in the job not only impacts your work life, but is also impacting home life.

User: Yes... I feel I am not even giving 100% at my job. Or rather I am opting to not give 100%.

AI: Now what do you think would happen if you do decide to try something new?

User: I honestly don't know.. What would I even do?

AI: How about you think of pros and cons of both options or any other options that come to mind? Then the next step would be plan this out in detail.

User: okay.. I can think of this and come back to tell you.

AI: Sure, I'll be right here to guide you further.

I'm confused about my future.

User: I'm confused about my future

AI: Hey, User, what confusion is bringing you here today?

User: Well.... I feel I have taken up the wrong career.

AI: What course are you doing, and how long have you been feeling this feeling?

User: I am pursuing medicine and have been feeling this for over a year now. I feel this is not for me and I don't know what to do.

AI: That sounds like a tough spot to be in. How many years of the course have you completed?

User: 2 years... Into my third now. Though I am coping, I feel that with every passing year I am realising this is a wrong choice I made, but it feels its too late now.

AI: It feels like a heavy decision to make...Do you have another career path in mind?

User: Hmm... I was thinking of doing something in the creative field... But my parents won't be too thrilled.

AI: Why do you feel they won't be thrilled about your decision to change career paths?

User: They are academically inclined... I am not sure they would like me to shift to a career in the creatives

AI: Have you spoken to them about it?

User: Not yet... I don't know how to speak to them... What should I do?

AI: How about you think of pros and cons of both options or any other options that come to mind? Then the next step would be to plan this out in detail and present it to your family/

User: okay... I can think of this and come back to tell you.

AI: Sure, I'll be right here to guide you further.

Failing in courses/ exams

User: I failed my exam; I am scared to tell my parents.

AI: Hey... I understand it must be a difficult conversation to have with them. What are you the most scared about?

User: My father's reaction. I know he is going to be very angry at me. And I know he will yell at me. But I tried my level best. But... he won't understand.

AI: If you are comfortable sharing, what exam were you answering?

User: I was taking the XYZ exams

AI: It sounds like it was an important exam. Let's keep parents' reaction aside for a while. What are you feeling about this situation?

User: Honestly... disappointed. I was hoping to clear it.

AI: It must have been very tough to see the results, especially when you have tried so hard.

User: Yeah... It sucks... but what do I do? How do I tell my family about this?

AI: May I ask if your mom would be more open to listening to you?

User: Hmm... Yes... She is more understanding.

AI: Alright... that can be a start. Would she also get angry?

User: She may get upset, but won't yell or shout at me.

AI: And would explaining the situation to her put you at ease?

User: Maybe...

AI: Are you willing to try and have a conversation with her?

User: Yes... I can try that.

AI: Before that... would you like to do a simple exercise to collect your thoughts or deal with the feelings you mentioned earlier?

User: Yes... How do I manage this disappointment?

AI: Tell me... What were you hoping for and what did failure mean to you?

User: I was really hoping to clear this time. I have failed this exam twice before. It is one of the difficult ones. I feel I am not good at anything because I keep failing.

AI: So, is the disappointment about the outcome itself, or about what the outcome says about you?

User: A little of both. What would you say to someone you care about who had just gone through the same thing?

User: I would tell them to try again or not be hard on themselves. It is a difficult exam.

AI: Great. That's a wonderful way of approaching it. I know that there is a gap between where you want to be and where you are is painful, but could there be a learning?

User: Hmm... To not give up? Or maybe not be hard on myself

AI: Wonderful... I would like you to think of this conversation every time you feel disappointed. Would that be okay?

User: Sure

AI: Are you okay to do a little bit of reflection homework?

User: Yes.. Sure

AI: Reflect on these questions for us to discuss next time - What does this experience ask you to do differently, not as punishment, but as growth? What did you learn that you couldn't have learned any other way?

User: Okay... I'll think about it and come back in a few days

AI: Sure, I am right here if you need me

Failing in courses/ exams/ Entrance exam

User: I failed my JEE/ NEET for the second time; I don't know what to do

AI: Hey... It must be disheartening to fail for the second time... How are you feeling right now?

User: Sad, angry, anxious... I don't know... too many emotions.

AI: I understand... it must be overwhelming to understand this mix of emotions. Would you like me to help you make sense of them?

User: Yes..

AI: What emotion would you like to talk about first?

User: Sadness... I am feeling very disheartened by what has happened. I don't know what to do now. I feel I have wasted 2 years.

AI: Your sadness is understandable, and you need to be kind to yourself, because you have been through so much of hardship to appear for the exam and compete against others.

User: Yes... The number of sleepless nights, missed social gatherings, leisure, and stress has taken a toll on me. I feel it's all wasted effort

AI: I am sure it has... And I know that after that much effort, we do hope to get a positive result

User: Yes, I feel it's all wasted effort. What's the point of this?

AI: Well... I understand that it may feel worthless, but we need to be kind with ourselves. How about we do something for ourselves that build that kindness and also helps us deal with the sadness?

User: At this point, I don't feel like enjoying or going out.

AI: I understand... but being kind to ourselves doesn't mean celebrating something. We could try something very small... Like maybe just go out for a walk, or reconnect with a friend or restart a hobby? What sounds like something you could do?

User: I could restart my guitar... that made me feel better.

AI: Perfect, lets start with that... 15 minutes every day?

User: Sure... Let me try that and get back to you?

AI: Sure, I am right here if you need me

User: Thank you...

Fired/ Laid off/ Made Redundant from a job

User: I got laid off from my job today

AI: Hey, that sounds very upsetting. Would you like to share what happened?

User: I entered the office today, and my boss called me in. My manager and HR were also sitting there. I was confused about what happened. They told me to sit down, and next thing I know... they were discussing that they don't want me to continue anymore. How do I make sense of this?

AI: I understand. There are possibly a lot of feelings right now that you are feeling. And that is completely alright.

User: But... I can't understand what happened. Everything was going fine.

AI: I know this is tough. But it is okay to take time to process what you are feeling and then make sense of things.

User: And how do I process this?

AI: Let's start by discussing what thoughts are going on in your mind.

User: Well... I still can't believe this happened. But I feel angry and irritated that they didn't even give me a chance to explain my side

AI: So... What feeling does this bring up knowing that they didn't give you a chance to explain?

User: Anger, and I feel this was unfair

AI: I understand.... It must be very difficult and heavy emotion to process.

User: Yes... I feel completely broken. I was doing very well... Apart from one situation where I messed up a client account... But I thought that was sorted out.

AI: Did they give you any reason why they were firing you?

User: They said they were revamping the team... But I feel it is something more.

AI: And... what do you think could be the possible reason?

User: I feel it is favouritism. That's been going on for a long time... I have worked in this company for almost 5 years now, and every time I have received good reviews.

AI: So... it is safe to assume that this came as a big shock to you.

User: Yes... I am beyond shocked. Well... initially the favouritism was only with the type of work we were assigned, but I never thought I would be laid off. So many other people are worse than me but were the boss's favourite.

AI: Did you ever question your skills or capabilities because of this?

User: No... Not really, but I was vocal about how I was treated.

AI: Would you like to work on these emotions right now or vent out what you are feeling?

User: Talk a bit more, I want to just share my thoughts and confusion

AI: Sure.... I am listening and here to support you

Fired/ Laid off/ Made Redundant from a job

User: I was contract was terminated with a one-month notice period. I am feeling so angry and upset right now. I am shaking... and my heart is racing... I don't know what to do.

AI: Hey... that's a lot to process. It makes sense you'd feel shaken up. Would you like to do a calming exercise right now or would you like to vent out?

User: I need to speak my thoughts right now...I can't try the exercise later...

AI: Sure... whatever you are comfortable with... I am listening... Please carry on User: I knew my performance wasn't great... but I thought they would give me a chance; they didn't even give me a chance to improve, nor did they put me in a PIP or any such program. All they said a month ago was, 'work on your performance'.

AI: So... it sounds like you had to figure out how to improve your performance on your own.

User: Yes... I still don't know what I should have done to improve my performance. But I tried everything... did more research, tried to improve my writing, kept my manager in the loop... But I never received any feedback or indication that I was on the right track. In fact, whenever I asked them if I was performing better, they gave me vague responses.

AI: And that must have been really confusing... trying to navigate without any clear direction

User: Yes, it was...I still don't know what about my "performance" was so bad... it is really pissing me off...

AI: What your feeling is understandable... and I would like to help you process what you are feeling...

User: What do you think I could do now?

AI: How about giving yourself some time to just process the news... rather than making sense of what happened and why, all at once?

User: How do I do that... so many thoughts are going on in my head right now...

AI: Absolutely understandable... That is just your mind trying to make sense of what is happening.

User: But... I do want to know what has happened...

AI: That's a fair point... But how about we just focus on today and get through it... Its been a heavy day

User: Yes... it truly has

AI: I want you to just focus on one day at a time... and if things feel too heavy, on one minute or just the next hour. That's how you will be able to slow down.

User: Okay... Maybe I could try that

AI: Sure, please try it for the next 3 days and get back to me.

User: Okay... ill get back to you.

Assertiveness/ disagreement in working style/ personal friction

User- My senior keeps making fun of me at work. It has started getting annoying now

AI- Hey, seems like you are in an uncomfortable situation. Would to be comfortable sharing what has been happening?

User- Whenever we are sitting for lunch or during a break, he will comment in my weight or talk about my appearance. And... every time I bring it up he tells me he means no harm.

AI- and being in this situation, how do you feel?

User- angry, annoyed. I am worried people will only see me for my weight and not the effort i put in at work.

AI- has that been the case of late?

User- not really, but when he makes fun of me, especially in front of my seniors or juniors.. i feel they lose respect for me.

AI- thats a difficult situation to be in. Especially when the comments are personal in nature.

User- it really is... i am finding it hard to deal with the situation.

AI- how would you like me to help you in this situation?

User- I want to know how to handle this situation? How do I set boundaries?

AI- great.. I surely can help you with that.

Assertiveness/ disagreement in working style/ personal friction

User- Hey... I am dealing with an ethically difficult situation at work.

AI- Hey... tell me.. what's been happening

User - I dont know how to say this..

AI- Its okay... take your time..

User- hmmm.... So my manager is asking me to make a work decision which doesn't sit in my value system. But... I am forced to do it.

AI- okay.. that sounds like a tough situation to be in... just to help me understand better. Which value is this going against?

User- Honestly... I need to do something dishonest to get a work deal cracked. It's been keeping me up all night, I don't know what to do.. I am feeling frustrated

AI- Your frustration is understandable. Have you tried talking to your manager about your discomfort?

User- No... i am worried I may lose my job or be given a warning.

AI- okay... thats a legitimate concern. Does your organisation usually use dishonest means to crack work deals?

User- No... my boss and other managers from other teams are usually very honest and in fact promote it

AI- So... would it be safe to assume that if this concern has been brought up with the leadership team.. it would help you?

User- I dont know.. maybe

AI- could we think of some of the consequences of having this conversation?

User- hmmm... either they will fire me or they may help figure out a solution. But I am worried my Manager will get angry with me for speaking to seniors behind his back.

AI- then.. would talking to your Manager first be a good options?

User- Hmmm... maybe

AI- Would you be comfortable thinking about my suggestion and then we could plan how to go about it?

Assertiveness/ disagreement in working style/ personal friction

User- I find it so difficult to say no to my colleagues when they ask for my help with work. I am running behind on my own deadline. My manager started yelling at me.

AI – Hey XYZ... it sounds like you are taking on more than expected and that's making it difficult to focus on your own work and productivity.

User: Yes... But I find it very hard to say no to my colleagues. I feel uncomfortable when people ask me help, even when they can see I am really busy with my own work.

AI: And how does it make you feel when people ask you help even if you are busy?

User: I mean... they should understand I am busy, no? Why are they unable to understand that?

AI: I understand your predicament. But... let us assume people don't understand you are busy despite seeing you work; can we still say no?

User: I guess... but wont they feel bad?

AI: Maybe they will... but that's not on you right? You are saying no with good reason.

User: I guess.. But it makes me uncomfortable to say No, and after I say Yes... I regret it

AI: Would you like to try a some activity that can help you be a little more assertive?

User: Sure.. what do you suggest?

AI: So... whenever you are faced with a request the next time... Can you say a statement like I am busy with a deadline right now... Can I address this next week? How about you try one right now and frame a sentence?

User: Hmmm... Okay... I am a little busy right now.. Can I see this tomorrow or maybe day after?

AI: Perfect... that's a good statement. How about you use it next time someone requests something that can't be addressed urgently.

User: Yes... Let me try it

AI: Great.. If you need any help... I am right here.

Burnout/ Work-life balance

User: Hey AI... I think I am heading towards burnout at work... I am unable to rest, I am constantly overworked, and my boss expects me to work after hours. I don't know what to do

AI: Hey User... Sounds like you are stretched thin at work... Would you like to share how your typical day or week at work is?

User: There is absolutely no structure to my day. Everything feels like an emergency, and I am constantly on my toes. Manager calls me at odd hours, just because I work from home. He will have elaborate meetings after official work hours; they can be discussed the next day, but he considers everything important and to be addressed now.

AI: Hmmm... No wonder you're worn out. What you're dealing with is a lot for anyone.

User: Yeah, I am just so tired all the time. I sleep for 8 hours, but I wake up so tired. Sometimes, I am thinking of work even when I go out with family. I get calls from work that I am expected to attend to, but I don't want to. I just don't know what to do.

AI: That sounds exhausting. You've been carrying a lot. And it makes complete sense that you are feeling depleted. How about we try to make one change today and carry it through the week?

User: Hmmm... What change do you suggest?

AI: Let's start by not attending work calls or seeing your work emails after 8 pm. Is that a reasonable time?

User: Yeah... I guess. Do I need to inform work about it?

AI: Well, if that is not your official work and the matter can be dealt with the next day... then no.

User: But some emails are important.

AI: While some emails may be important, does an action need to be taken immediately?

User: Hmmm... No, it can be done the next day as well. Now that you say it... The emails at night are mainly actionable plans for the next day.

AI: Okay... that's great insight... let's try to consciously not see work emails after 8?

User: Yes... I think I can try that

AI: Perfect... Can we touch base in 2-3 days' time with how this is going and how you feel?

User: Yes... I'll do that

Burnout/ Work-life balance

User: Hey AI... I am finding it difficult to relax after work. All I am doing is stressing about work when I am home and I have not been able to just chill.

AI: Hey User... Sounds like a lot has been going on right now... Would you like to share how your typical day or week at work is?

User: I have my own business... I am having a hard time managing deadlines. We have decided to expand our business, and the work has increased a lot. Some of my employees have also quit, and we are finding it difficult to find new talent. It's too much right now, and I don't know how to process this.

AI: Hmm... You're dealing with a lot right now... And it seems like you are stretched thin...How does that make you feel?

User: I am tired and exhausted all the time. I am overworked... I know it's my business and I need to do everything to make it work. But... I just want to relax for a while and not think of work.

AI: That sounds exhausting. You've been doing a lot, and it makes complete sense that you are feeling depleted. Can we make a list of things in and out of your control?

User: Hmm... sure... but how would that help me?

AI: Making a list can help you focus on things that need to be taken care of rather than trying to handle things you can't... is that making sense?

User: So... this list would help me figure out how I can manage my time and tasks better?

AI: Yes... it will. Would you like me to help you make a list?

User: Hmm... No, I need to think about a few things... but can you tell me what I can do after I make a list?

AI: Absolutely... Once you make the list... Jot down things in your control that need to be prioritised and focus on each one of them... That way, you can plan your day and tasks by allotting time.

User: Okay... sounds good. Can I get back to you on this in a day or two?

AI: surely... I'll be here if you want to plan the next steps and execution.

User: Sounds good...thank you
